FORMAL NOTE

Says Japs Were Defeated in Their Last Skirmish—Five Officers Killed.

ARMIES ARE FACING EACH OTHER

Both Sides Are Ready for the Clash Which Must Come Very Shortly—Council of War in Tokio Held This Morning.

London, April 6.—Though the Russo-Japan war is only eight weeks old, the whole of Korea, for the possession of which Russia and Japan appealed to arms, has been abandoned by the czar's men. Reports from various points yesterday confirmed the news that the Hermit kingdom is in complete possession of the Japanese. Japanese entered Wiju Monday without having to fire a shot, although it was expected the 2,000 Russians entrenched there would make a strong resistance. The Russians apparently have retreated across the Yalu river.

the Russians crossed the Yalu in boats on Saturday, swimming their horses. The Russian force stationed at Thylosan retreated at the same time to the right bank of the Yalu. The natives further report that there is a small number of Russians in the vicinity of Chosan and Yookfong on the left bank of the Yalu above Changsheng.

BURTON GIVEN A JAIL SENTENCE

He Was Also Fined $2,500—Can Never Again Hold a Public Office.

[Special by Scripps-McLae.]
St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—Senator Burton of Kansas was sentenced to serve six months in the Iron county, Missouri, jail and fined $2,500 in the United States court for using his influence with the postoffice department to protect the Hatto Grain & Securities company, a St. Louis get-rich-quick concern. The attorneys entered an appeal and a stay of execution. Burton was in court and was very nervous. His hands and limbs shook visibly. In sentencing him, Judge Adams said: "The sentence I impose is light in comparison to the crime you committed, but because the sentence prevents you from ever holding office again, I believe you will find the penalty severe enough." Burton refused to make any statement beyond saying that he would prove his innocence.

PASSENGERS IN RIOT
ON SOUTHERN RAILWAY

United States Marshal and Deputies Place Crew of Train Under Arrest.

Huntington, W. Va., April 6.—The passenger train which runs on the West Virginia and Cumberland railroad, a branch of the Norfolk and Western between Devon and Snoddy, Va., ran into the former station with the entire crew and almost every passenger under arrest.

This was occasioned by a riot on the train, the result of the bitter feeling engendered by the suit of Henry C. King of New York to oust the people of the section from their homes. United States Marshal Hoffer and a number of deputies went into the wilds to summon witnesses to testify in the case. On the return trip the train was boarded by a large number of infuriated natives, who demanded the return of the witnesses and threatened the lives of the officials.

A bloody fight followed in which a score of people were seriously injured. The officers finally succeeded in gaining control of the train, but not until the entire train crew and many of the natives had been man-

The Ohio supreme court affirmed the verdicts of the Lucas county court in the cases of Albert and Ben Wade, brothers, who are under sentence of death for the murder of Kate Sullivan at Toledo several years ago. Judge Cook in the superior court at San Francisco awarded the law firms of Lloyd & Wood and Knight & Hargreave $75,000 each in fees from the estate of Charles L. Present indications point to the election of L. K. Luse to the supreme bench. Janesville, Beloit, Edgerton and Evansville all gave him a majority and the entire county is estimated as having gone in his favor. Dane county he is said to have carried by an almost two to one vote and Milwaukee county, including the city, gave him a nice majority. It is estimated in Madison that he has carried the state by about five thousand. Mr. Kerwin carried his own county and several others that have been always counted administration strongholds but lost many where the hardest work had been done in his behalf by the administration press bureau at Madison. Thousands of circulars were sent out in Janesville previous to the election and on Monday the Free Press and the local labor paper printed bitter attacks and the two papers were handed out to the public free of charge with the articles blue pencilled.

Who Luse Is
Mr. Luse was born on a farm in Dane county forty-nine years ago. He received his preparatory education in the common schools of that county and at Albion academy, and graduated from the law school at Madison in 1876.

His first legal experience was gained at Watertown, where he was in the office of Harlow Pease. In about a year he returned to Dane county and located at Stoughton, where he continued to practice for nearly twenty years.

He then moved to St. Paul, where he lived for about four years. In 1899 he returned to Wisconsin and formed a partnership with A. L. Sanborn at Madison.

The Madison firm was dissolved about a year ago, when he, Mr. Luse, moved to Superior.

In 1881 Mr. Luse was member of the assembly.

In 1887 and 1895 he was assistant attorney general resigning the last time to move to St. Paul.

CLOSE CONTEST FOR FRED BURPEE

DEFEATED WILLIAM RUGER BY A NARROW SQUEEZE ONLY.

JACKMAN ELECTED IN THIRD

Democrats Secure Two Aldermen and One Supervisor in the City—Warm Election.

Election day has come and passed and the results are in. Fred C. Burpee was again elected city attorney but by so narrow a margin that his sixteen majority did not come in until the last precinct had been reported. William Ruger, Jr., made a fight that has seldom been witnessed in the city politics and had the west side of the river stood by him as well as did the second and third wards he would have been elected. His greatest loss was in the fourth ward, which is Mr. Burpee's home ward, and in the first. His defeat is so small that he should not feel discouraged.

Ward Fights
The hottest fight in the whole contest for aldermanic honors was in the third ward. There a battle royal was waged with victory for the republican candidate, Frank Jackman, by a majority of seventy-five. The first precinct gave Mr. Jackman his working majority and he went down into the second precinct with enough majority to overcome Rosell's lead in his home bailiwick.

Other Wards
In the first ward W. H. Merritt was elected alderman for two years on the republican ticket by 276 votes, with no opposition. W. H. Grove, republican, was elected alderman for one year with a majority over his democratic opponent, Harry Garbutt, by 162 majority. In the second ward John Constock had no opposition for the aldermanic mantle. In the fourth ward John J. Sheridan, democrat, defeated Fred S. Sheldon, republican, by the narrow margin of 33. William Murray was elected alderman in the fifth by 42 majority over his republican opponent, Charles M. Warren.

Supervisors
Willbur Carle was elected supervisor in the first ward, Halvor L. Skavlen in the second, E. D. McGowan in the third, Fred P. Grove in the fourth and Edward Rathernam, the only democratic supervisor elected. In the fifth, E. B. Holmstreet was re-elected school commissioner in the second ward and Alva Hemmens defeated Dennis Hayes for the same office in the fourth by 164 majority. William S. Jeffris was elected school commissioner-at-large by 694 majority and Jesse Earle was re-elected justice of the peace by 597.

Much Interest
Much interest was shown in the results from the different wards and the Gazette office was well filled all the evening with men who eagerly waited for news from the city and from the county. It was such a close contest for city attorneyship that the final figures were necessary to really decide who had been selected.

GEO. MOSHER RUN DOWN BY THE CARS

Town of Harmony Farmer Met a Terrible Death Near Northwestern Freight House Last Night.

George Mosher, a well-known farmer about sixty years of age residing in the town of Harmony, was run down by a North-Western freight car and killed near the freight house last evening and killed almost instantly. With his son, William, he had just finished loading a car of live-stock to be shipped to the James Lamb farm in South Dakota. The son was to make the trip on the car and the father after bidding him goodbye had started to cross the tracks with James Banfield. The latter perceived the approaching car in time and escaped with his life. Mr. Mosher was dragged several yards before the locomotive was brought to a stop and when reached by friends life was extinct. Russell's ambulance was called and the body was removed to Kinball's undertaking rooms.

TOBACCO TALK FOR THE GROWERS

Market Is Fairly Active—Prices Are Not So High—Farmers Not Satisfied.

While the market is fairly active, conditions are far from satisfactory to buyer or seller. Prices are so low that farmers are unwilling to make them public. An occasional test sale for ten cents, but the average is not more than six cents. The sugar beet promoters are taking advantage of the situation and are offering most alluring bails to the tobacco growers, so that a considerable shrinkage in tobacco acreage is probable this year. Old leaf is rather quiet. Practically all the crop is down from the poles and a good deal of tobacco is being delivered at the warehouses, but there is much of wrangling about deductions from prices fixed by early contracts. Shipments out of storage from Edgerton for the week amounted to 934 cases.

New England.
Nearly all the tobacco has been taken down from the poles, and a considerable proportion of the crop has been usually low. Prices, however, have ruled unusually low. Many crops in Massachusetts went as low as 4 cents, and it is claimed that all growers who accepted less than 5 cents have lost money. One reason for the low prices is to be found in the fact that the tobacco was taken down so late that growers are not disposed to sort it. Again the quality of the crop is not of the best.

New York.
Conditions are practically unchanged. But little buying is proceeding, buyers evidently waiting for improved roads. The warehouses are fairly busy but in many localities growers are behind in their stripping. Prices continue to rule low, the average being between four and six cents per pound in the bundle.

MANY CIGARS IN THE CITY DAILY

GO UP IN SMOKE IN HONOR OF NICOTINE.

QUARTER OF AN ACRE OF WEED

Is Smoked Every Day by Janesville Tobacco Users—Figures That Sound Big.

How many cigars are smoked in the city of Janesville each day? The figures would appal any one could they really know them. Roughly speaking taking two for every voter it will total up to over five thousand each day. Take three or even four a better and the sum total is nearly twelve thousand a day. Think of the immense amount of tobacco this means. It would take the average cigar factory in Janesville three days to make this number of cigars and he would use four hundred pounds of tobacco in so doing. This selected tobacco is a quarter of an acre a day of tobacco land would have to be grown exclusively for the tobacco smoked by the citizens of Janesville every twenty-four hours.

Other Tobacco.
This does not include the chewing tobacco or the cigarette tobacco. They will almost equal the four hundred pounds sold in cigars. Totaling the whole amount it would mean that a half acre of tobacco would have to be grown each day to furnish the flower city with their favorite weed for three hundred and sixty-five days each year. Rock county is a tobacco growing county and enough tobacco is raised within its limits each year to furnish a thousand cities the size of Janesville with all the smoking and chewing they could use each year. It is an immense industry and there will always be a demand for it.

The Cost.
Of these twelve thousand cigars smoked every day take three fourths of them at five cents and the remainder at ten cents and see the total. Four hundred dollars for five centers and four hundred for ten centers, an extra hundred for the smoking, chewing and cigarettes and the total chewing and cigarettes, which goes up in smoke every day. This will equal $328,500 a year for this city alone.

Various Colors.
Cigars come in three colors: Colorado Claro, Colorado and Colorado Maduro. The first is light colored, the second somewhat darker and the last named dark. The light colored ones are the mildest.

Janesville is noted as being a great cigar town. With its manufacturers and sending cigars around the state and adjoining ones it is being recognized among retail merchants. Representatives are on the road constantly for Janesville factories and if all the cigars which they ship a year would be made into a continuous line, it would encircle the greatest part of the country.

Some In Cans.
One of the latest innovations in the cigar line is putting them out in the cans. These come in a can, the cans resembling those of baking powder. They are quite a novelty. The city is visited almost daily by representatives from big eastern firms who sell to Janesville wholesalers. Most of the cigars which they handle in large quantities come from the eastern states, Pennsylvania being a great cigar manufacturing state. Cigars at wholesale, range from $10 to $200 a thousand. They are usually sent in 5,000 lots.

NOVEL METHODS AT ST. LOUIS NOW

"The Pike" Is To Be Protected by Mutual Insurance Companies Fire Police.

Fire protection and insurance for property on "The Pike" has been provided by a pool of the World's Fair concessionaries which will underwrite 50 per cent of the risks and establish in addition to the fire-fighting force of the Exposition a system of inspection, a salvage corps and a fire department.

Then per cent of the insurance value of the property will be deposited in trust in the World's Fair Bank and from this fund losses will be paid. If there are no fires the money will be refunded to the members of the pool at the close of the Exposition.

Management of the plans has been placed in charge of George D. Markham and A. R. Rogers who have also arranged with old line insurance companies for placing the remaining 40 per cent of the risks, thus giving to the concessionaire full protection from loss at a minimum rate.

Exhibits in the various exposition palaces will be protected by a similar pool formed among the exhibitors. The large insurance concerns have professed unwillingness to issue policies on exhibits to the amount asked and the plan which has been arranged solves this problem.

With a careful system of inspections and ready-at-hand fire-fighting equipment it is expected to prevent fires altogether and if there should be losses these precautions it is hoped, will suffice to keep them at a minimum. The addition with the exhibition Fire Department but will be considered as an auxiliary.

AMONG THE WORLD'S WORKERS

News Notes From Various Sources of Great Interest to the Workman.

The demand of the manufacturers for a reduction in the sheet and tin plate wage scales has been conceded by General Executive Board of the amalgamated association of iron, steel and tin workers. The new scale calls for a reduction averaging about 8 per cent in addition to the 10 per cent cut the union voted into effect on January 1, making the total reduction of 18 per cent in the scale of 1909-1. It is expected that the many little union sheet plants in the country will be put in operation under the new terms. The Executive Board also decided to make a reduction in the tin-plate scale amounting to about 20 per cent. The new scales will be effective until June 20.

The Russian peasant earns only an average of 8 cents a day.

The Amalgamated Woodworkers' International union will hold a general convention about June 20. The members are now voting upon the city in which it will be held.

Orders have been issued to the Anthracite Mine workers to remain away from work on April 1 to join in the celebration of the soft coal workers' strike during the eight-hour day. They are directed to hold meetings of their locals and discuss matters of advantage to the union.

The National manufacturers' association have organized a systematic opposition to the anti-injunction bill now pending before the House Judiciary Committee, which will probably delay action till the very last of the session. Labor men do not expect action on the bill this session.

State Labor Commissioner McMackin, of New York, in his annual report, finds that many employers have exceeded the requirements of law in adding to the comfort and safety of their employees. In all such cases he finds that the effect is a friendly spirit resulting in improved work and larger profits to the employer.

J. W. Kendrick, vice president of the Santa Fe railroad, has taken under consideration the question of making a written agreement with the union machinists employed on the road system. A committee representing every shop submitted the schedule. No change in the wage scale is asked. The working rules proposed are similar to those in force on all other roads with which the machinists have written agreements.

The labor troubles of the teamsters' union in New Albany, Ind., threatens to bring on war between capital and labor. The Employers' and Business Men's Protective association, which has filed articles of incorporation, was organized. It is claimed by labor leaders, to fight the teamsters in their demand for recognition of their union, and a movement is on foot among the unions to organize a company with a capital stock of $5,000 to purchase teams and engage in a general teaming business.

On application of counsel for the Western Federation of Miners district, Judge Stevens recently granted a temporary injunction against the members of the Citizens' Alliance of Tebbuckie, Col., and all others who may attempt to prevent the return of that place of union miners recently deported by a mob. Notice of the injunction will be served on the persons named in the application soon and otherwise given publicly. Judge Stevens, in granting the injunction, expressed the opinion that the evicted miners were being deprived of their rights. Counsel for the federation said that the deported men would arrange immediately to go back to their homes.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who went to Porto Rico with the intention of uniting the two labor organizations on the island, was among the passengers on the steamship Ponce, which arrived at Quarantine recently. He declined to make any statement as to the success of his mission, which is said was a failure.

TREE PLANTING TIME IS NEAR

CAN BEGIN WORK WITHIN A SHORT TIME.

MANY USEFUL SUGGESTIONS

Frederick Canfield of the University, Gives a Few Tips on the Manner of Planting.

Soon will be here the season for tree planting and thus becomes most timely a bulletin by Frederic Canfield of the university on the subject. He says that never under any circumstances should young trees be left in the shipping package even over night. If possible plant at once, otherwise open the bundle and heel in the trees or plants. Heeling-in is temporary planting. To do this dig a trench wide and deep enough to accommodate the roots with one side sloping. Cover the roots with moist earth sifting it well among the roots. Tramp firmly and when the trench is filled cover again with one inch of loose earth. The heeling-in spot should be on well drained ground. Treated in this manner trees may remain for several days or even weeks if in a shaded and cool place. The same applies to bushes and even strawberry plants, if trees are shrivelled when received bend down the tops after heeling-in and cover them with moist earth. Often in two or three days they will be found to be plump and fresh.

We are told not to set out a young orchard in sod. The grass roots reach out and rob the trees of food and water. If you cannot devote a piece of land to trees alone and keep it in cultivation, do not attempt fruit growing as the results are disappointing. Dig holes large enough to accommodate the roots after these have been cut back to sound wood. Fit the holes to the roots, not the roots to the holes. Firm broken and crushed roots back to sound wood. Do not cut off more. The tree was deprived of about seven-tenths of the roots when dug. It will need all that remains. Don't worry about the fine fibrous roots about which so much has been written—these are dead anyway of the trees has been out of the ground more than an hour—take care of the larger roots for it is from these that growth starts. Protect the roots from the sun and wind every moment from the time the bundle is opened until the tree is set. When in the field planting throw a wet burlap or grain sack over the roots.

The hole should be deep enough to admit setting the tree about two inches deeper than it stood in the nursery. Get down on your knees: it is difficult if not impossible to plant a tree while standing upright. Spread out the roots and sift fine earth about the roots and pack firmly; at first with the fingers and when the roots are out of sight get up and tramp firmly with the feet. If the earth is moist and mellow, it cannot be tramped too firmly. It must be in close contact with the roots in order to enable them to take up the water or contain it.

The tree is now safely anchored in the ground but the work is not finished. At this point arises a very common cause of failure. Some of the branches must be removed or the tree is liable to perish. Before removal from the nursery the tree had sufficient roots to supply all of its buds with water. In digging, most of the roots have been removed, but the buds are left. When growth begins every healthy bud will push out and call on the roots for water to feed its newborn leaves. The very limited supply that the reduced root system can pump up will be distributed equally and as a result none may have enough to develop. Its leaves the tree must perish. We must therefore reduce the number of these water pumps by removing one-fourth to one-half the buds. The drier the ground and the weather the more we should cut off. The manner in which the cutting is done will depend to a great extent upon the kind of tree or bush. In apples, plums, etc., we need to bear in mind the ultimate shape of the tree. The framework upon which the branch system is built is determined largely at this time. Remove crowding, crossing, and interfering branches. Aim to leave the main branches spirally about the stem rather than opposite. The lower opposite branches in fruit trees form bad forks that may split down later. The work is still unfinished unless the tree is mulched. This mulching may be done with the hoe or cultivator, stirring the soil frequently. Another way is to put plenty of straw manure or straw about the tree. Trees may be well planted and yet die if not mulched. It is a good plan to protect the trunk from sun and wind by box or straw winding.

In the case of shade trees and sometimes in re-planting in old orchards it is necessary to set in sod. In this case the sod should be removed over a circle not less than six feet in diameter and after the tree is set a heavy mulch applied, or better, a thorough hoeing given once a week. The principles here cited for trees apply equally well to smaller plants.

PLEASANT PARTY LAST EVENING

Mr. Van Pool's class of the Central Methodist Sunday school met at the residence of W. W. Warner for the purpose of organizing, that they might do more efficient work. The following officers were elected: Edith Warner, president; Alice Lucke, secretary, and Pauline Cross, treasurer. The choice of a name was left until the next meeting. Light refreshments were served and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

Championship. Is a Londoner. His life by his continued activity. He has fought so many battles during the last two years that a well known medical man says that unless he takes a rest he will drop dead of heart disease within a year or two. Another specialist, however, has assured him that his heart is sound and all he need worry about is a slight disorder in his stomach. The next doctor who comes along will be claiming that O'Brien is suffering from enlargement of the chest if he keeps up his winning gait over the kind of company he fights.

O'Brien has a wonderful muscular development. The Quaker City boxer when stripped ready for the fray is a physical marvel. His arm, neck and shoulder muscles stand out like whipcords. In this respect O'Brien is in a class by himself. He has all of the other boxers outclassed when it comes to muscles. Even Jim Jeffries has not the perfect muscular development O'Brien possesses.

Ordinarily the muscles of the fighter are little in evidence. When relaxed they are scarcely seen. Fighters do not believe that a heavy muscular development is necessary. Jeffries and Corbett have muscles that are supple, yet have power and strength. Fitzsimmons comes nearer to O'Brien in his muscular development than any of the other fighters. Notwithstanding the development of his body muscles, O'Brien possesses great speed. He is not muscle bound. He can land a terrific blow with as much speed as any of the topnotch boxers.

Few fighters have fought more battles than O'Brien.

Jockey Robbins.

Jockey Walter F. Robbins is the latest pupil of the Crescent City Jockey club's kindergarten for riders who will make a bid for eastern patronage and money this season. He will ride on the New York tracks, but just who his employer will be has not been definitely decided upon. He has had two offers—one from James H. Keene and the other from Tom Healy, the trainer for R. T. Wilson, Jr.

Robbins is third on the winning list of riders at the New Orleans track. He has had great success with Joe Street's horses, which are all leased thoroughbreds belonging to James H. Keene. Through this lad's clever handling these horses have won $14,298, nearly $3,000 more than any other stable secured during the winter.

It was this success and ability in the saddle that caused Mr. Keene, through an agent, to ask Robbins his terms for his services during the summer months. The lad wired that he would accept a $1,000 retainer fee, with the additional $25 and $10 winning and losing mounts.

This offer had scarcely been sent when Robbins received a telegram from Healy asking him not to close with any other horseman before he had heard from R. T. Wilson, Jr. Healy said that the young millionaire horseman was out of the city and that he would try to secure some proposition from him looking toward Robbins' services.

All this occurred but recently. Since then no further moves have been made toward the employment of Robbins. In all probability he will ride for Mr. Wilson this summer.

Robbins has had two years' experience in the saddle on the western tracks and is considered a first class rider, as he has nice hands and is an excellent judge of pace. His particular forte is riding in front of the field. He can ride at ninety-five pounds.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes News

San Francisco, Nov. 23, 1903.

To the Editor of the Wisconsin.
Dear Sir:—For many years an editor myself, I address you by request and as a simple duty. A great discovery has been made in this city. It is fraught with so much importance and yet is so hard to believe, that those who are personally cognizant should add the weight of their influence, be it great or small.

I not only know by contact with many of the beneficiaries, but was myself rescued from Bright's disease by it. The cure has been found, and the difficulty in believing it is costing many lives. It is astounding how far our prejudices carry us. But the great fact is here, and acceptance means recovery.

After my own unexpected release I wouldn't let my friends rest and several took the treatment and recovered. One was Charles F. Wacker, the Sixth Street merchant. He had Diabetes and thought he was going to die. He got well and passed for a $5,000 policy.

I say to you as a brother editor that those of your friends who have Diabetes or Bright's disease, and every one knows of some, that they can recover. I will be glad as one of many survivors out here to give you further information.

Yours &c.,
CHAS. H. ENGELKE.
We sent for the Fulton Compound to which the above refers and now have them in stock. They are the first cures the world has ever seen for chronic Bright's Disease and diabetes. We are sole agents. Free pamphlet. Peoples Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy.

SAVE THE BIRDS.

There are no game wardens to protect the song birds, and if there were, there would be but little protection during the campaign, but every boy should be taught in the home and in the school that the life of a bird is sacred, and to destroy it, or to break up the nests is a crime. The average boy is a friend of birds, but now and then a spirit of mischief gains control and these innocent and harmless creatures suffer in consequence.

There was noticed on the walk in the park the other day, a demolished nest of robin's eggs. Some thoughtless boy had destroyed it.

The worst enemy of the song bird is not the boy, but the woman who in obedience to the dictates of fashion insists on decorating her Easter hat with plumage from the fields and woods. If the boy is responsible for recklessness, this class of women should be held accountable for wholesale slaughter.

She may not ask that the nearby parks be devastated to gratify the whims of fashion, but she is perfectly willing that nature's parks should be called on for all the wealth possessed.

EXPORTS OF PETROLEUM IN 1902.

The heathen sat in darkness in many parts of the world until the exportation of American petroleum began. There are remote towns in the interior of China where the name of America is hardly known but where the tin boxes containing petroleum that are brought from the treaty ports are hailed with delight as vehicles of light and warmth, the true gospel of life. For over ten years the export trade of the United States has been increasing steadily and rapidly. The years 1901 and 1902 have been unusually prosperous ones in the annals of the industry. The exports of petroleum and its products in 1902 amounted to 1,064,233,601 gallons.

This large amount was less, however, by 14,840,918 gallons than the number of gallons exported in 1901. On comparing the separate exports for the years 1901 and 1902 it will be seen that there is a considerable falling off in the anthracite and illuminating products in 1902, and an increase in the amount of crude, lubricating, and residuum products. The great increase in the crude production is in the fields of the Southwest and West, and it is not surprising, therefore, that 18,450,552 gallons of crude petroleum were exported from Texas ports during the year 1902—a quantity that represented nearly 13 per cent of the total crude exported from all ports.

Fuller details concerning the exportation of oils from the United States may be obtained from Mr. F. H. Oliphant's report on "The Production of Petroleum in 1902," which is soon to be published by the United States Geological Survey.

THE DESERT LAND ACT.

In 1877 Congress passed a law known as "The desert land" act, and under the workings of this law millions of acres belonging to the public domain have been appropriated by speculators. The law was loosely drawn and while it was intended to induce the reclaiming of lands in the arid districts, men were not slow to take advantage of it, and so where over the government had unclaimed lands, speculators were first in the field.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway company extended their lines across Southern Dakota to the Missouri river in the early 80s. This was so much in advance of civilization that for hundreds of miles the wild prairie was a desert in fact as well as in name.

Government surveyors were in active demand and as soon as lines were established and corners marked, men were on the spot to file some sort of a claim on every quarter section.

The result was that along the line of this road, from Tracy to Pierre, a distance of 400 miles, every section of land was gobbled up, not by homesteaders, but by land sharks. The country has not yet recovered from this wholesale grabbing and it will be noticed in traveling over it that much of the land within a mile or two of the road is still in wild condition, while back of this land are well cultivated farms.

There is now pending in Congress a bill to repeal this desert land act, and while it is opposed by ranchmen and speculators, it is likely to pass. It is high time that the government woke up to the fact that it has any favors to bestow along this line, that they should be given to actual settlers, men who are worthy, and who will occupy the land and develop the country.

Governor Van Sant of Minnesota aspires to the second place on the republican national ticket. Merger notoriety has brought him to the surface.

Send in your short stories. The Gazette contest closes May first. There is time enough to win both fame and money.

The floods come and go with great regularity, and yet people continue to build on the low lands and invite danger. There seems to be something fascinating about a volcano.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Sentinel: It's a wonder that Governor La Follette is not opposed to the re-election of President Roosevelt, seeing that the latter has never openly declared himself in favor of the primary law.

Oshkosh Northwestern: General Miles may not be much of a politician, but evidently he knows a thing or two as shown by the fact that he has been addressing the Democrats on patriotism and at the same time is advising the prohibitionists to hold a late convention.

Seranton Tribune: Thomas E. Edison says he has spent many years puzzling over the problem of aerial navigation and has come to the conclusion that he must give it up. The wizard is wise.

Waipaca Record: Candidate Cook, it is announced, is hearing the expenses of his campaign without financial assistance from anyone. Can as much be said for Governor La Follette?

Chicago Chronicle: The publication in an Italian paper of an alleged plot against the pope turns out to have been an April fool joke of the editor. It seems they have fool editors of yellow sheets in Italy as well as in this country.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: The London Lancet's contention that fish is not only not brain food, but absolutely injurious, is cordially endorsed by the beef combine.

Racine Journal: Five hundred thousand New York city school children are to aid in the crusade against spitlers in public places. It is not stated if these same children are to also crusade against such of their number who throw orange skins on the sidewalks.

El Paso Herald: A Hartford woman had an unexpected legacy of a lot of bank stock; bank immediately failed; she has been adjudged legally liable to pay an assessment levied for the benefit of depositors; next time a long lost uncle comes around with a bill in her favor she will pull a gun on him.

La Crosse Leader-Press: Mr. John L. Sturtevant, secretary of the St. Lawrence campaign committee, has since the Barber letter episode been obliged to spell his name in a peculiar manner. His printed stationery now carries his name as Sturtevant, the "u" in the middle of the name being emphasized by being in larger type. Mr. Sturtevant apparently does not care to take any more chances.

Manawa Advocate: A lawyer in a court room may call a man a liar, scoundrel, villain or thief, and no one makes a complaint when such adjourns. If a newspaper prints such reflections on a man's character there is a libel suit or a dead editor. This is owing to the fact that people believe what an editor says; what a lawyer says cuts no figure.

Milwaukee News: Politics is La Follette's passion. He must have his finger in every pie, from the election of a city ticket in Milwaukee to the choosing of a non-partisan justice of the supreme court. The same tactics are employed in every case.

Sturgeon Bay Advocate: Republicanism is a religion. It is a faith that is not based on facts, but on the desire to see a certain man elected. It is a faith that is not based on facts, but on the desire to see a certain man elected.

Heans, who are such from principle and conviction, need not hope for a cessation of the rancor and strife that has existed in their ranks for the last three or more years until its cause in the person of Robert M. La Follette is removed, root and branch. The people have it in their power to do this during the ensuing few months, and they should not hesitate in bringing about this much desired result.

LUSE APPEARS TO BE ELECTED.

In the following figures Luse is first named, Kerwin second; Rock, 68, 67; Magnolia, 198, 129; Union, 68, 32; Orford, 61, 61; Spring Valley, 59, 52; Beloit, 129, 32, 13; Plymouth, 87, 129; Johnson, 19, 43; Edgerton, Luse's majority 31; Center, 16, 19; town Janesville, 32, 41; Beloit city, second ward, 150 majority for Luse; Porter, 71, 50; Turtle, 93, 60; Clinton, 11, 81; Clinton village, 46, 66; Milton, Luse 116 majority.

Republican Defeat in Racine. Racine, Wis., April 6.—The republicans of Racine elected only one candidate for a city office at the municipal election today, the democrats electing candidates to the three principal offices. The social democrats drew from the republican ranks, causing defeat in the strong republican city. Mayor and clerk were elected this year. Ward Clemons, democrat, was elected city treasurer by a plurality of 627; Hugh Harper (dem.), plurality 40; John Fennel (dem.), plurality 47. W. W. Rowland's (rep.) plurality 343. The republicans elected five of the eleven aldermen, giving them fourteen of the twenty-two aldermen.

Waukesha, Wis., April 5.—The republicans won the city election today, electing four of the seven city officers. They elected M. L. Snyder, mayor; F. C. Blair, treasurer; Henry Lockney, attorney; William Powrie, engineer, and five of the six supervisors, while the democrats elected John Brim, controller; T. P. Buckley, city clerk, and W. H. Hardy, assessor. On the vote for supreme court justice, Louis K. Luse of Superior carried the city against James F. Kerwin of Neenah by seventy-nine. An estimate of the county is favorable to Luse. Republican gains are reported throughout this county.

Madison, Wis., April 6.—In the municipal election the democrats elected six out of ten aldermen, making the council democratic 11 to 9. W. D. Curtis, democrat nominee for mayor, was endorsed by the republicans. Circuit Judge E. Ray Stevens, a republican, and municipal judge Anthony Donovan were re-elected without opposition. L. K. Luse, a stalwart candidate for supreme bench, carried Dane county against J. C. Kerwin, the La Follette candidate, both being republicans.

Nonpartisan in Beloit.

Beloit, Wis., April 6.—C. A. Gault was elected mayor over Lawrence Cunningham on nonpartisan ticket by 413. The contest was one of the bitterest in years, and Cunningham's defeat is result of anti-fascism and anti-labor fight. Four out of five aldermen were elected, and J. R. Booth, republican police judge, was re-elected. License carried by over 400.

Eau Claire is Republican.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 6.—The republicans elected William Rowe mayor and license carried. In the race between Kerwin and Luse for supreme court justice Kerwin leads by 257 votes.

Kerwin Ahead in Oshkosh.

Oshkosh, Wis., April 6.—J. C. Kerwin of Neenah carried the city by 500 yesterday against L. K. Luse of Superior. The total vote cast was 1,350, which is one-quarter of the usual number.

Elkhorn Elects a Democrat.

Elkhorn, Wis., April 6.—J. W. Page, democrat, was elected mayor; Francis M. Porter, democrat, treasurer; Legrand Latham, democrat, assessor. The first and second wards elected republican supervisors and aldermen. The third ward went democratic. For justice of the supreme court the vote was: Louis R. Luse, 217; and James C. Kerwin, 150.

Close Race in Kenosha.

Kenosha, Wis., April 6.—The official count will be demanded to ascertain the result of the municipal election held in Kenosha yesterday. On the face of the returns James Gorman, democrat, is elected mayor by a plurality of 25. He carried with him the entire democratic ticket. The democrats have surely secured control of the city council, and will have a majority of one vote. Many complications in the different wards make it impossible to give out any returns of the judicial election. Only one precinct has been heard from, and this gives Luse 111 and Kerwin 91. The democrats elected to city offices were Mayor James Gorman; city clerk, George Harrington; city treasurer, Martha Steinmetz; assessors, Henry Beinhennann and Mat Kietel; justice of the peace, George B. McCarron.

Reform Wins in Green Bay.

Green Bay, Wis., April 6.—Dr. R. E. Minahan was elected mayor over Attorney J. H. McGowan by 2,125. Minahan was the reform candidate supported by the Citizen's League. W. L. Kerr was re-elected clerk and Jake Bursch treasurer. N. J. Monahan was elected first municipal judge by a large majority over F. C. Gady. A. L. Gray, against whom eleven true bills were returned by the grand jury, was re-elected. Ald. E. H. Morgan, whom indictments were returned, was snowed under in the eighth ward. Republican candidates were re-elected in many wards.

Close Race in Superior.

Superior, Wis., April 6.—Mayor James O'Hare, democrat, was re-elected over Agan, republican, yesterday by 176 majority, out of 4,000. Such, democrat, is elected controller, and Hunter, republican, treasurer. L. K. Luse, the local candidate for supreme court judgeship, has an estimated vote of 3,950 in Douglas county against 940 for Kerwin of Green Bay.

BY THE GRASS WIDOW.

When a man fears the reason for a woman's coldness toward him is that she doesn't love him, he'd much rather be kept in the dark about it.

When matters have so shifted themselves that a woman can successfully rally a man on any subject, the two are in a definite stage of lovemaking.

When a woman has good opinion of another woman it is usually a negative one. Women like each other not for what they are, but for what they are not.

The ancient Britons had a proverb that brains in women were of no more value than long tails on sheep. They would fetch none the bigger price for that.

After all, man represents the magnanimous sex. He finds much less fault with women for her recourse to tea and tears than she does with his champagne and cigars.

A girl should consider wistfulness as the special prerogative of young widowhood, as the young widow should consider piquancy that of girlhood. Let the cabbler stick to his last.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

If a man is a born fool he can at least blame it on his ancestors.

A woman doesn't enjoy a play unless she can pick flaws in the plot.

After a woman has been married six months she ceases to talk about soul union.

When some men fall in love it takes a minister and a divorce judge to get them out.

A woman can't understand how a man can be so nice and so wicked simultaneously.

"I took the water myself tonight and let the boy turn in," she said. "How is it ashore, mate?"

"We've come back to the world of little things, Moran," said Wilbur. "But we'll pull out of here in the morning and get back to the place where things are real."

"And that's a good hearing, mate."

"Let's get up here on the quarter deck," added Wilbur. "I've something to propose to you."

Moran laid an arm across his shoulder, and the two walked aft. For half an hour Wilbur talked to her earnestly about his new idea of filibustering, and as he told her of the war he warmed to the subject, his face glowing, his eyes sparkling. Suddenly, however, he broke off.

"But, no," he exclaimed. "You don't understand, Moran. How can you? You're foreign born. It's no affair of yours."

"Mate, mate," cried Moran, her hands upon his shoulders. "It's you who don't understand—don't understand. Don't you know—can't you see? Your people are mine now. I'm happy only in your happiness. You were right—the best happiness is the happiness one shares. And your sorrows belong to me, just as I belong to you, dear. Your enemies are mine, and your quarrels are my quarrels. She drew his head quickly toward her and kissed him."

In the morning the two had made up their minds to a certain vague course of action. To get away—anywhere—was their one aim. Moran was by nature a creature unfit for civilization, and the love of adventure and the desire for action had suddenly leaped to life in Wilbur's blood and was not to be resisted. They would get up to San Francisco, dispose of their "boat," outfit the Bertha Miller as a filibuster and put to sea again. They had discussed the advisability of rounding the Horn in so small a ship as the Bertha Miller, but Moran had settled that at once.

"I've got to know her pretty well," she told Wilbur. "She's sound as a nut. Only let's get away from this place."

But toward 10 o'clock on the morning after their arrival off Coronado, and just as they were preparing to get under way, Hoang touched Wilbur's elbow.

"Seem ill one piece smoke boat. Him come chop-choop."

In fact, a little steam launch was rapidly approaching the schooner. In another instant she was alongside. Jerry, Nat Ridgeway, Josie Herrick and an elderly woman, whom Wilbur barely knew as Miss Herrick's married sister, were aboard.

"We've come off to see your yacht," cried Miss Herrick to Wilbur as the launch bumped along the schooner's counter. "Can we come aboard?"

She looked very pretty in her crisp pink shirt waist, her white duck skirt and white kid shoes, her sailor hat tilted at a barely perceptible angle. The men were in white flannels and smart yachting suits. "Can we come aboard?" Wilbur gasped and stared. "Confirmed it," he muttered. "Oh, come along," he added desperately.

The party came over the side. "Oh, my," said Miss Herrick blankly, stopping short.

The decks, masts and rails of the schooner were shiny with a black coating of dirt and grease; the sails were gray with grime; a strangling odor of oil and tar, of cooking and of opium, of Chinese punk and drying fish, pervaded all the air. In the waist, Hoang and Jim, bare to the belt, their eyes looped around their necks to be out of the way, were stowing the dory and exchanging high pitched monosyllables. Miss Herrick's sister had not come aboard. The three visitors—Jerry, Ridgeway and Josie—stood nervously huddled together, their elbows close in, as if to avoid contact with the prevailing filth, their immaculate white outfitting clothes detaching themselves violently against the squalor and sordid grime of the schooner's background.

"Oh, my!" repeated Miss Herrick in dismay, half closing her eyes. "To think of what you must have been through! I thought you had some kind of a yacht. I had no idea it would be like this." And as she spoke Moran came suddenly upon the group from behind the foremast and paused in abrupt surprise, her thumbs in her belt.

She still wore men's clothes and was booted to the knee. The heavy blue woolen shirt was open at the throat, the sleeves rolled halfway up her large white arms. In her belt she carried her haphazard Scandinavian dirk. She was hatless as ever, and her heavy, fragrant cables of rye head hair fell over her shoulders and breast to far below her belt.

Miss Herrick started sharply, and Moran turned an inquiring glance upon Wilbur. Wilbur took his resolution in both hands.

"Miss Herrick," he said, "this is Moran—Moran Sternersen."

Moran took a step forward, holding out her hand. Josie, all bewildered, put her tight gloved fingers into the calloused palm, looking up nervously into Moran's face.

"I'm sure," she said feebly, almost breathlessly—"I'm sure I'm very pleased to meet Miss Sternersen."

It was long before the picture left Wilbur's imagination. Josie Herrick, petite, dressed in white, crisp from her maid's grooming, and Moran, sea rover and daughter of a hundred Vikings, towering above her, booted and belted, gravely clasping Josie's hand in her own huge fist.

CHAPTER XIII.
SAN FRANCISCO (some more).
For two days the Bertha Miller had been beating up the coast, fighting her way against northerly winds, butting into head seas.

The warmth, the stillness, the peace, the quiet of Magdalena bay, steaming under the golden eye of a tropic heaven, the white, baked beach, the bay heads, straited with the purple in the morning, the cornucopia of sunset, the enchanted mystery of the purple night, with its sheen of stars and riding moon, were now replaced by the hale and vigorous snorting of the trades, the roll of breakers to landward and the unremitting gallop of the unnumbered multitudes of gray green seas careering silently past the schooner, their crests occasionally hissing into brusque eruptions of white froth or smiting broad on under her counter, showering her decks with a spout of icy spray. It was cold. At times thick fogs cloaked all the world of water. To the east a procession of black hills defiled slowly southward. Lighthouses were passed; steamers of smoke on the western horizon marked the passage of steamships, and once they met and passed close by a huge Cape Horn, a great deep sea tramp, all sails set and drawing, rolling slowly and leisurely in seas that made the schooner dance.

At last the Farallones loomed over the ocean's edge to the north; then came the whistling buoy, the Seal rocks, the Heads, Point Reyes, the Golden Gate flanked with the old red Presidio, Line point with its watching cannon, and by noon of a gray and bolsterous day, under a lusty wind and a slant of rain, just five months after her departure, the Bertha Miller lay go her anchor in San Francisco bay some few hundred yards off the lifeboat station.

In this berth the schooner was still three or four miles from the city and the water front. But Moran detected any nearer approach to civilization, and Wilbur himself was willing to avoid, at least for one day, the publicity which he believed the Bertha's reappearance was sure to attract. He remembered, too, that the little boat carried with her a fortune of $100,000 and decided that until it could be safely landed and stored it was not desirable that its existence should be known along "the front."

For days, weeks even, Wilbur had looked eagerly forward to this return to his home. He had seen himself again in his former haunts, in his club and in the houses along Pacific avenue where he was received, but no sooner had the anchor chain ceased rattling in the Bertha's hawse pipe than a strange revulsion came upon him. The new man that seemed to have so suddenly sprung to life within him, the Wilbur who was the mate of the Bertha Miller, the Wilbur who belonged to Moran, believed that he could see nothing to be desired in city life. For him was the uneasy deck of a schooner, and the great winds and the tremendous wheel of the ocean's rim, and the horizon that ever fled before his following prow; so he told himself, so he believed. What attractions could the city offer him, what amusements, what excitements? He had been flung off the smoothly spinning circumference of well ordered life out into the void.

He had known romance and the spell of the great, simple and primitive emotions; he had sat down to eat with buccaners; he had seen the fierce, quick leap of unleashed passions and had felt death swoop close at his nape and pass like a swift spirit of cold air. City life, his old life, had no charm for him now. Wilbur honestly believed that he was changed to his heart's core. He thought that, like Moran, he was henceforth to be a sailor of the sea, a rover, and he saw the rest of his existence passed with her aboard their faithful little schooner. They would have the whole round world as their playground; they held the earth and the great seas in life; there was no one to let or to hinder. They two belonged to each other. Once outside the Heads again and they swept the land of cities and of little things behind them, and they two were left alone once more, alone in the great world of romance.

About an hour after her arrival off the station, while Hoang and the hands were furling the jib and foresail and getting the dory over the side, Moran remarked to Wilbur:

"It's good we came in when we did, mate. The glass is going down fast, and the wind's breezing up from the west. We're going to have a blow. The tide will be going out in a little while, and we never could have come in against wind and tide."

"Moran," said Wilbur, "I'm going ashore—into the station here. There's a telephone line there. See the wires? I can't so much as turn my hand over before I have some shore going clothes. What do you suppose they would do to me if I appeared on Kearney street in this outfit? I'll ring up the wholesale chemists in town and have an agent come out here and talk business to us about our ambergris. We've got to pay the men their prize money. Then as soon as we get our own money in hand we can talk about overhauling and outfitting the Bertha."

Moran refused to accompany him ashore and into the lifeboat station. Roofed houses were an object of suspicion to her. Already she had begun to be uneasy at the distant sight of the city of San Francisco, Nob, Telegraph, Russian and Blinco hills, all swarming with buildings and grooved with streets. Even the landlocked harbor fretted her. Wilbur could see she felt imprisoned, confined. When he had pointed out the Palace hotel to her—a vast gray cube in the distance, overtopping the surrounding roofs—she had sworn under her breath.

"And people can live there! Good heavens! Why not rabbit burrows and be done with it? Mate, how soon can we be out to sea again? I hate this place."

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.
Enjoy Using Herpelde on Account of Its Effectiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpelde speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpelde effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpelde stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Paints Pope's Picture.

Pope Plus X. is having his portrait painted by a French artist, M. Gabriel Ferrier. The picture may be described as a stage portrait, the Pope sitting on the pontifical throne and wearing the tiara. It is said that though the Pope's face is full of benevolence, M. Ferrier in all the lengthy sittings did not once see the Pope smile.

YOUNG WIFEHOOD

Boston, Mass., 152 Shawmut Ave., Oct. 27, 1902.

After I had been married about four months I felt my health generally decline. I seemed to lose the light step and dragged wearily along instead. My appetite failed me and I lost health and strength. I was nervous and had shooting pains through my limbs and stomach while bearing down pains and constant headaches added to my misery.

The menstrual flow became more and more profuse and I was unable to attend to my daily duties. My husband called in three different physicians and I took enough medicine to kill or cure a dozen women, but it all had no effect on me whatever, until I took Wine of Cardui. In a few days I felt a change for the better, my general health improved and at the next time of my periods my flow was more natural and I was in less pain. Gradually I recovered my health and strength and am now in perfect health. I take an occasional dose of Wine of Cardui which keeps me well.

I am happy to give you this endorsement.

Betty Ricker

President, Back Bay Woman's Club.

Why don't you try for the same health Mrs. Ricker has? It is easy to secure if you take Wine of Cardui according to directions. Wine of Cardui strengthens weak and worn-out women of any age and assists the mother and housewife to bear her exacting duties. Wine of Cardui makes women fit for all the duties of womanhood.

It will relieve the pains of irregularity, cures falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, ovarian troubles, and has been known to remove what physicians considered dangerous tumors. Women who use Wine of Cardui do not suffer at the monthly periods. They do not suffer hysterical attacks, because Wine of Cardui gives them strong nerves freed from the irritation of female suffering.

A $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui purchased from your druggist will keep you free from pain.

MEAN TO PROTECT PROPERTY

Marines Will Guard Rolling Stock, Track and Terminals, but Will Not Coerce the Men Into Returning to Their Work.

Washington, April 6.—According to a report made by the United States charge at Panama to the State Department, the labor troubles on the isthmus growing out of the strike of the railroad employees have taken a serious turn.

The matter was deemed of sufficient importance to warrant consideration at length at the Cabinet meeting and the unanimous opinion was that everything possible should be done to avoid an entanglement of the United States government in any labor controversy. But it also was determined that the government would not withhold in any degree its protection to the Panama railroad.

Marines to Protect Property.
It was decided that the railroad property, rolling stock, track and terminals should be protected by forces from the United States warships at the isthmus, if that became necessary. There will be, however, no compulsion exercised against the strikers to force them to return to work.

Secretary Moody was charged with the duty of carrying out this decision and with instructing Admirals Glass and Sigbee as to the course they shall pursue.

Naval Force is Ample.
There is ample naval force on the isthmus for an emergency. The senior officer is Admiral Glass, who is on the Panama side with his flagship New York and the Marblehead, Bennington, Boston, Concord, Wyoming, Preble and Paul Jones, while on the gulf side is Admiral Sigbee on his flagship Newark, with the Montgomery and the Marietta.

The official statement of the action taken by the Navy Department was as follows:

"The Navy Department has sent instructions to Admiral Glass and Admiral Sigbee to exercise care that neither the marines nor seamen interpose in labor disputes on the isthmus of Panama, nothing beyond the preservation of peace and property to be permitted."

Morgan Discusses Situation.
In the Senate Mr. Morgan called up his resolution directing the attorney general to inform the Senate whether he has made or is making on behalf of the United States a purchase of rights granted by Colombia to N. B. Wise for the construction of an isthmian canal. He used the resolution as a foundation for a speech on the Panama canal situation. The resolution was referred.

CIVIL SERVICE.

President Roosevelt Suspends the Law Sixty Times.

Washington, April 6.—A report sent to Speaker Cannon by the civil service commission shows that while President McKinley suspended the civil service law three times for the purpose of making appointments without requiring the applicant to take an examination, President Roosevelt has suspended the law sixty times for the purpose of appointing persons or allowing their promotion without examination. The persons whom President McKinley appointed were James N. Tyner, Harrison J. Barrett and Clifford Pinchot, who was made chief of the forestry division in the department of agriculture. In detail the suspensions of the law by Mr. Roosevelt are as follows: Thirty-three appointments allowed without examination. In this head the positions covered by the orders range from a position in the Indian service to a coachman in the navy department. Eleven reinstatements were allowed without regard to the year limit fixed by the rules; one certification authorized without regard to the condition of the apportionment; one reassignment of certificate authorized; one certification allowed without regard to the position of the name on eligible register; four transfers allowed from unclassified or excepted positions to classified positions; one transfer allowed from temporary to permanent classified position; two transfers allowed without regard to rule requiring six months' prior service; one transfer allowed without regard to the rule requiring the same line of work; three temporary appointments extended without regard to the limitations of the rule; one acceptance of application for examination allowed notwithstanding age limit fixed by the rule.

AGAINST PAPER TAX.

New York Publishers Tell Their Troubles to Congressmen.

Washington, April 6.—The lot of the Gotham newspaper publisher is a hard one, according to statements made by Don C. Seltz of the New York World before the house committee on judiciary. The publisher, he said, was being squeezed by the paper trust on one side, by the labor combinations on another and by a recently formed dry goods combination on the other. The latter was succeeding in reducing the price of advertising, and many of the great New York dailies, he declared, would face an actual deficit in the next year or two unless relief was forthcoming. Together with John Norris, business manager of the New York Times, Mr. Seltz spoke in favor of the resolution instructing the secretary of commerce and labor to investigate the high price and scarcity of news print paper and the causes which have produced these conditions. They declare that the International and the General paper companies have divided the field in the United States between them and raised the price of news paper $14 a ton during the last four years. Mr. Norris took the view that the removal of the tariff from Wood pulp, amounting to $1.67 a ton, would enable the construction of independent mills within six months which would compete with the trust.

Prophecies Trouble.

Washington, April 6.—A prophecy of serious friction between the newly established general staff of the army and the secretary of war was made in the house by Representative Prince of Illinois. He referred to the contentions that in the past have existed between the president, the commanding general of the army and the secretary of war, and these, he declared, were as gentle zephyrs compared to what may be expected under the new order of things. He was confident that the secretary of war would not be a chief clerk to register the decrees of the general staff, but would make the members of the staff subject to him.

FIVE PERSONS DROWN DURING PLEASURE TRIP

College President Takes Party for Cruise in Boat and Returns to Shore a Widower.

Tampa, Fla., April 6.—Five persons, all members of a pleasure party from the Florida Methodist college at Sutherland, were drowned near Anclote lighthouse. The dead:

Mrs. Walker, wife of the president of the college.
Miss O'Connor of Atlanta.
Miss Slaughter of Sutherland.
Miss McCray of Sutherland.
Mr. Boulard of Sutherland.
President Walker and Miss Newton reached the beach alive. The bodies of Mrs. Walker and Miss O'Connor have not yet been recovered. The bodies of the other three who lost their lives were washed ashore and recovered.

President Walker had taken the party out for a cruise to the lighthouse, but met with rough water and the boat was overturned in the gulf. The college is on the west coast, about thirty miles from Tampa.

Battery to Have Reunion.
St. Louis, April 6.—George S. Geis, secretary of the Astor Battery association, has announced that arrangements are being made for a reunion of the battery in St. Louis during the world's fair.

Slayer is Adjudged Insane.
New York, April 6.—Cornelius Williams, the slayer of Andrew H. Green, the publisher, has been committed to the state insane asylum for criminal insanity at Matteawan.

Nonagenarian Hero.
Washington, N. J., April 6.—At the age of 90 Samuel Mowery sacrificed his life to save William Drake from burning to death.
Elmer Dover of Cleveland, O., secretary of the republican national committee, who has been in New York since last Friday, started with Mrs. Dover for Thomasville, Ga.

Perfection in Union Suits.

The Lewis Combination Suits are made in the most complete assortment of styles and sizes. For Men they come in long, quarter or half sleeves; ankle or knee length, stout or slim. The swell of hips and seat is amply provided for, while a device entirely precludes possibility of the garment opening at the back in any attitude. Those who have worn Lewis Union Suits cannot be induced to adopt other makes of underwear. In connection with their high grade old lines of Underwear, the Lewis Company have introduced a popular priced line known as the Janesville Underwear, which embodies all the care and expertness that characterize all Lewis made goods, but which appeal to the classes who desire finely fashioned Underwear but who don't wish to pay the higher prices. This line is made in both Union and Two-piece Suits in a variety of fabrics to suit every taste. We show a complete stock of them.

Union Suits at $2.00, of Egyptian Lisle.

At $3.00, handsome Siltrine, which has the feel and appearance of silk; these come in a variety of colors and are made high neck, long or quarter sleeve and ankle length.

Two piece Janesville Underwear, of Egyptian Lisle, $1.50 per garment; Siltrine, two piece, at $1.75 per garment; Medicated Wool, two piece, at $2.50 per garment.

At $3.50 Lace Knit garments of Striped Egyptian Lisle. This number has proven one of the most popular of the entire Lewis line and is bound to be received with great favor in Janesville. The porous nature of the Lace Knit allows the use of a stronger thread than is possible in closely woven garments of the same weight. This porousness at the same time makes undergarments that are delightfully cool for summer wear. The point of sanitation is also a factor. They are very comfortable, fit the form, are too elastic to bind or restrain the movements of the body yet firm enough to give comfort and durability. Lace Knit is also made in two piece garments at $4.00 per suit. We show a complete range of sizes.
